

Emergency Preparedness for Healthcare – At Work and At Home (EM 106)

THE NEED

Emergency preparedness is the responsibility of every healthcare employee. Whether meeting the Joint Commission, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services requirements or ensuring that employees will come to work during a disaster, emergency preparedness training is essential. The Yale New Haven Health System Center for Emergency Preparedness and Disaster Response has developed Emergency Preparedness for Healthcare – At Work and At Home (EM 106) to provide the information and action steps all employees can take to ensure a work environment prepared for disasters.

TARGET AUDIENCE

- ▼ Recommended for all hospital and healthcare employees
- ▼ Awareness-level

MODALITY

- ▼ Online

EM 106 TOPICS INCLUDE:

- ▼ Recognize the types of emergencies and disasters that can impact healthcare facilities
- ▼ Understand the phases of emergency management
- ▼ Understand the purpose of the Incident Command System
- ▼ Prepare healthcare and public health employees for their roles and responsibilities during a disaster
- ▼ Discuss steps for personal and family preparedness

The Yale New Haven Health System Center for Emergency Preparedness and Disaster Response can assist your organization in preparedness planning and response.

For more information, please contact us:
Tel. 203.688.5000 • Fax 203.688.4618
center@ynhh.org • www.ynhhs.org/cepdr

